

September 7, 2008

To Whom it May Concern:

I have had the pleasure of knowing Andrew Odom almost since the day he arrived in Savannah. Since that time, I have known Drew in many capacities. He was an integral part of the creative energy that is still pulsing through Savannah. His participation in that capacity has extended from employee of a knowledge-based business, supporter of arts and technological events, freelancer, project manager, and now consultant.

I do want to specifically touch on our partnership in putting together BlogSavannah '07 and BlogSavannah '08. Andrew was the lead in those efforts and was the leader in said efforts that each time brought over 100 bloggers to Savannah to share their experiences and talents. The Creative Coast Initiative helped sponsor and plan the event and watched as Drew pulled out all the stops involving corporate sponsors and volunteers alike.

Beyond all this Drew has also been my friend. To that end I have found him reliable, honest, and a lot of fun. In short, he is intelligent, capable, dedicated, and quite personable.

Sincerely,

Fitz Haile
Project Manager
The Creative Coast Initiative